

The background of the entire image is a solid light blue. Scattered across this background are numerous small, pink, brain-shaped candles. Each candle is a realistic representation of a human brain, with visible gyri and sulci. They are positioned at various angles, some facing the viewer and others slightly turned. Each candle has a small, thin wooden stick protruding from its top, serving as a wick. The lighting is bright and even, casting soft, dark blue shadows from each candle onto the surface below it.
